

I am writing this brief comment to voice my opposition to certain considerations being made regarding Low-Power FM stations taking priority over high power ones. The Radio stations I listen to are either public or non-profit, and while on the face putting low power stations as a higher priority will help consumers, in fact it will allow large media corporations to buy more stations, enforce their monopolies and make everything on the airwaves sound even more the like the nasty hum-drum pop stuff we hear on EVERY commercial station now. There is much less variety on the air after you made drastic changes to ownership law in the '90s--please don't do it again. Please allow public and non-profit radio to continue.

Regards,
Raymond Pelling